

Dylan Munson

Duke University
Nicholas School of the Environment
Grainger Hall, 9 Circuit Drive, Room 4120
Durham, NC 27708

dylan.munson@duke.edu
(484) 947- 4496

Education

Duke University, 2022 - present
PhD Student in Environmental Policy

McGill University, 2016 - 2020
B.A., First Class Joint Honours Economics and English Literature,
Minor Concentration Mathematics,
Dean's Honour List, Cherry Prize in Economics

University College London, Fall 2018
Study Abroad Program

Interests

Environmental economics, climate change, development, ecology, complex systems

Awards

Cherry Prize in Economics
2020
Travel Bursary (for Exchange Program)
2018
James McGill Scholarship
2016
Scholarship for Achievement in Physics
2016

Languages and Skills

English (native), French, Hebrew (elementary)
MATLAB, Python, R, Stata, L^AT_EX, QGIS, ArcGIS

Employment

Federal Reserve Board, 2020 - 2022
Research Assistant, Global Modeling Studies
Supervisor: Martin Bodenstein
Role: Assisting with various policy and research projects (including ones related to climate change and its economic impacts), extensive code development and maintenance.

Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 2019
Summer Analyst, Macroeconomic and Monetary Studies
Supervisor: Davide Melcangi
Role: Programming and code development, literature reviews.

Publications

Amodio, F., Chiovelli, G., & Munson, D. (2022). “Pre-colonial ethnic institutions and party politics in Africa.” Journal of Comparative Economics, 50(4), 969-980. <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.jce.2022.05.001>

Works in Progress

Munson, D., Jeuland, M., & Bekele, R. D. (2024). “Household responsiveness to climatic and livelihood shocks: Results from a first-round survey in Ethiopia.”

Bekele, R. D., Jeuland, M., & Munson, D. (2024). “Domestic fuel choice and scarcity in rural Ethiopia: Impacts on agriculture labour supply, yield and net returns.”

Conferences and Workshops

European Association of Geographers (EUROGEO) Annual Conference (2024):
Presenter

Grants

Duke Climate Research Innovation Seed Program (CRISP, 2024): Proposal “Measuring the impact of climate-smart agriculture interventions on adaptation and resilience,” joint with Marc Jeuland, Jonathan Phillips, Mark Borsuk, Alex Pfaff, Norbert Wilson, James Moody, Rahel Bekele, Alejandro Diaz-Herrera, Liilnna Teji, and Vancie Peacock

Teaching

Climate Change Communication Fellow (Teaching Assistant): Duke University, UNIV102: Let’s Talk About Climate Change; Fall 2023

Teaching Assistant: Duke University, PUBPOL304: Economics of the Public Sector; Spring 2024